2005

Laura Jacquin

A dedication to Laura, who has been an inspiration to the class of 2005 ALONG our way.

The class of 2005 proudly dedicates this year's Masacksic to Laura Jacquin who has been an important part in our lives since elementary school. She has not only impacted many members of the graduating senior class but has been a positive role model to all who know her. Through her incredible optimism, she has shown a strength of mind that is an inspiration to many. Anyone who knows Laura will tell you about her contagious laugh and bright smile which bring light to any dark situation. She has a strong perserverance and a determination that make her a powerful role model for everyone.

Laura has educated the class on countless levels from the importance of a great attitude to teaching the school about her dog, Monroe. With 22 News, Laura made a video tape to educate about Monroe and the correct etiquette of service dogs and showed it to many of her classes. This is just one example of how she works hard to educate others. She is the Good Will Ambassador for Massachusetts for the MDA(Muscular Dystrophy Association). This honor basically makes her the spokesperson of Massachusetts for the organization.

Laura also conducted an MDA walk in June of 2003, which has become an annual event. She organized this walk through Forest Park, and held a reception at her house afterwards. This not only raised awareness for the MDA, but also raised money for research. The amount of work she has done to educate her community and her classmates shows her amazing dedication.
Laura has created everlasting memories that will always remain with us.

Señor Riccio

A Spanish teacher at LHS for 31 years

Sr. Riccio has spent a LONG time teaching his many students.

The Class of 2005 is proud to dedicate this yearbook to Señor Vito Riccio. His commitment to the Longmeadow High School community spans thirty years. Known for his wonderful sense of humor, Señor will be sadly missed by all. As one student says, "If you go through LHS, you want him as a teacher at least once."

He tended his chickens, his roosters, and his Christmas tree farm. For years students looked forward to the opportunity to help him with this part of his life. But his real love has been teaching foreign languages and cultures, thereby helping students find a wider sense of the world.

Born in Italy, Sr. Riccio traveled throughout Latin America where his love of the culture grew. His enthusiasm for this culture has inspired students in the Spanish department for thirty-one years. No one can imagine how many lives he has touched.

And so, the class of 2005 proudly says, "Gracias, Sr. Riccio. You are the best!"

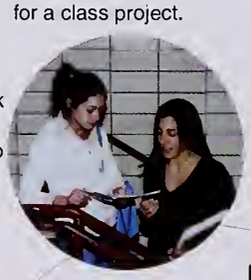
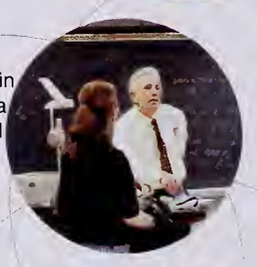
Surprised at their findings, Robbie Ehresman and Bobby Conley do research for a class project.

It's Been a Long Block

Sophmores, Rachel Kusiak and Christina Manzi cram to prepare for a test.



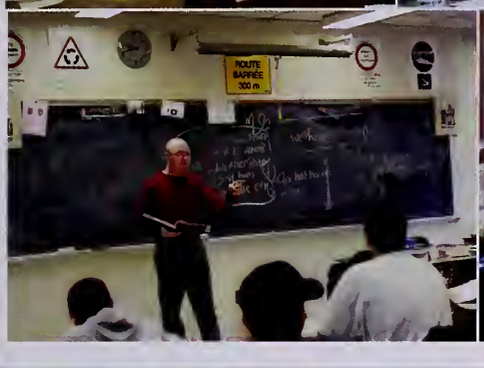
Mr. Goodwin growls at a perplexed student.



Kim Ferris and Lizzy Berger stroll down the hall with their passes.

It's 11:35 and you're in the middle of a huge English test that you somehow forgot to study for last night. The teacher expects you to write six five-paragraph essays in one block and your arm is extremely close to falling off. You look at the clock in hopes that your torture will soon be over, but the minute hand is just striking 11:37. How could that be? Wasn't it 10 minutes ago when you last looked at the clock? You hide your face as your stomach's rumbling echoes through the silent room. Hopefully your mother has packed you a huge turkey sandwich so that the grueling wait for third lunch will be worth it.

As if suffering from a six hour and thirty minute day full of rigorous academic courses wasn't painful enough, students are forced to endure endless boring lectures and tiresome lab blocks that last way too long. How many times can you hear a teacher say "umm..." before you go crazy? And when you finally think that you will get to relax during your study period, you realize that you have absolutely nothing to do and nowhere to go. When you try to use the computers, they shut down on you. When you try to go to your locker, the passes are all gone. The things you would give just to hear the piercing shriek of a fire drill. But how often does the school really need to test its alarm system? Not often. It looks like it's going to be a long block....



1. How long does it take for paint to dry? Krista Koerner, in Ms. Zelasko's sculpture and ceramics class, applies a glaze to her latest creation.

2. Elana Zygman and Zev Cossin go off on a laughing tangent while Mr. O'Connell attempts to explain a mathematical tangent.

3. Mr. Ream spends the last minutes of class reviewing French grammar while his students spend the last minutes gazing at the clock.

4. Lost in concentration, Greg Lewis focuses on his English quiz.

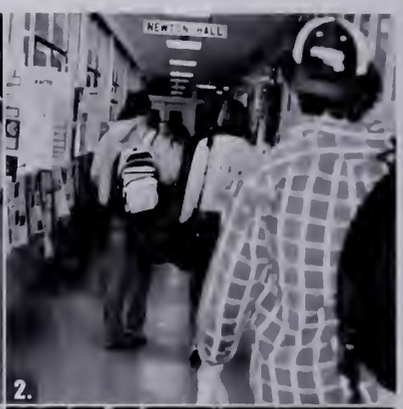
"... When it's dry and ready, Oh drediel I will play." Matt Karim, Isaac Hausman, David Apirian and Doug Douquette waste away the hour in the SLC.

"Only four people to a table? Aw, come on...We're studying for a Calc test... Really we are.

" I finished my math homework in my last ICE." " My history book is in my locker." " What deck of cards?" An hour in the SLC can seem to drag on forever.

Breaking a sweat, Cam Keady, Jessica Wiker, Laura Robinson and Alexandra Mansfield hope to be named Dancers of the Day.

The solution to the equation will surely come to Luke Hayes if only he can dig deeply into the recesses of his brain.



1. A half hour is not long enough, especially when the line for spicy chicken is never-ending.

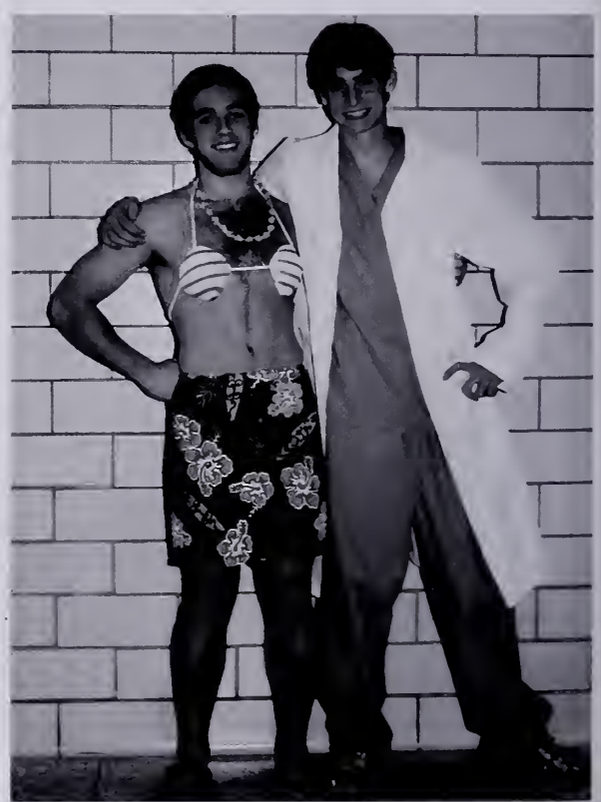
2. Students rush through the halls trying to make the 4 minutes between classes last a little longer.

3. David Rosenthal skips the stairs and opts for a more entertaining route to class.

4. Long practice is now over; Stephanie Whitney, Caitlin Donnelly, and Mary Bitzer can finally smile.

"Sometimes the last minutes of the day can take so long.

Mr. O'Shea patrols another long line in the student parking lot.



For some it's Halloween. For seniors Doug Duquette and Bobby Conley, it's just another day at LHS.

A quick nap and a bottle of vitamin water will get Brent DeSellier through the rest of the day.

It's 2:15 and students race out, trying to avoid the inevitable traffic jam.

It's Been a Long Day

The day is over but Leann Gerlach, Doug Ratner and Zach Shapiro plan to meet for a study group.

Your alarm goes off at 7:00 in the morning. You drag yourself out of bed and into the shower, hoping that the water will somehow revive your senses and prepare you for another long day at school. Ironically, however, your entire family has decided to shower before you and the only water that is left is beyond freezing. As you run out the door, you grab your burnt bagel and hop onto the freezing leather seats in your car. Your day couldn't get any worse.

Anna Pion finds a new way to amuse herself through a long class.

Oh boy, were you wrong. You sprint to your homeroom teacher's door to mark a P next to your name, but her lights are off and nobody is in the room. Angry, you rush to your locker only to hear the class bell ring before you even take your jacket off. You look at your schedule and realize that Monday means you have all of your classes and no studies. Annoyed, and definitely not looking forward to the rest of your day, you dash to your first block class only to find the hallway packed with freshman and their enormous backpacks. After pushing your way through the sea of kids, you finally reach your first block class only to find them already taking the quiz that you once again forgot about.

After a long day in school, David St. George, Kylee Yam, Alex Coutu and Elana Zygman wait for their rides that never comes soon enough.

As the bell rings at 2:15 you feel relieved that the worst part of your day is over. All you can think about doing is slipping on a comfortable pair of sweatpants and a T-shirt while watching Boy Meets World and sipping hot chocolate. Unfortunately, your basketball game is at 4 pm this afternoon, leaving you just enough time to go home, change, and eat a snack. When you return home at 6:30 you are exhausted and the last thing that you even want to think about is the mountain of homework that each teacher has assigned. Man, it's been a long day....

Yoni Shemesh works on yearbook until 4:30

ANTE UP! There's nothing like a Saturday night Poker to pass the time. Zach Shapiro, P. J. Khosrowjerdi, and Kent Grahma play a serious game of Texas Hold 'em in the Shapriro family's basement

SURF'S UP! Junior Dave LaFlamme loves traveling to Costa Rica to catch the waves. A sunny day and the rolling surf make the time pass much too quickly.

Many LHS students spend their Sundays at Y.P.S.

The Weekends are Just not Long Enough

Lizzie Berger gives oboe lessons

Jake Odenz works as a DJ

Lindsay Wright is a cashier at Armata's

As the bell rings at 2:15 on a Friday afternoon, the one thing on most people's mind is busting down the back doors and racing home to begin the weekend. But as you hop into your mother's old van and put it in reverse, you place yourself right in the middle of a huge traffic jam of cars slowly leaving from the student parking lot. Frustrated, you blast your music to tune out the dullness of the wait, only to hear commercials playing on every single station. As soon as you think it is your turn to exit, the car to your left rudely barges its way in front of you and nobody turns around to wave. The weekend does not begin on a good foot.

When you finally make it home, you hear the message that your boss has left on your answering machine politely asking you to sacrifice your Friday night in order to cover for the girl who has just quit. If it's not a job that is taking up all of your time, it is the long violin lesson or the never-ending afterschool practice that sucks it up. And how many times do you have to wake up early on a Saturday morning to go walk the dog or take SAT's? Looking forward to a free Saturday night, you angrily remember that you promised your cousin you would celebrate her birthday with four hundred other screaming little girls.

Finally, it's Sunday afternoon and you think you can spend the day lounging around the house and eating delicious food. When you open your backpack, however, you realize that you have an English essay due along with a six-page Chemistry lab and a Spanish vocabulary quiz to study for. Just when you think you know what you are going to write about for that dreaded essay, your mom shouts from the bottom of the stairs that CCD class is going to start in 10 minutes. The weekends are just not long enough...

1. Tori Holden and Justin Rappaport relax and watch a video rented from Blockbuster.

2. T.G.I.F. Nicole Muratore and Sara Gibby are happy that it's Friday night.

3. Dinner out with friends is a great way to spend a Friday or Saturday night. Ketti Chauhan enjoys the company of a new and special friend, the Red Robin.

4. Is it a sleepover or a stay awake over? Having fun at a girls' night out are Patti O'Malley, Margaret Roache, Sarah Gould, and Danielle Meth.

Mary Petroff is a professional baby-sitter.

Jacqui Lakritz works at Jessica McClintock at the mall.

"What's longer: a day at work or a day at school? Sometimes it's hard to tell.

IT'S GOOD TO BE HOME. Staying at home and spending some down time in your own room is a great way to spend the weekend. Elsie Chamberland pokes through her CD's on a relaxing day.

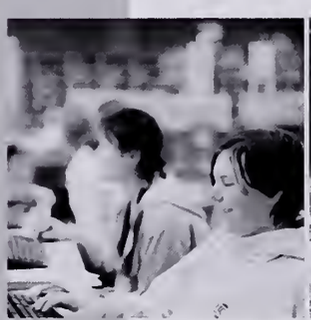
A NIGHT AT THE IRON HORSE Doug Ratner makes music for a large audience at one of his performances in Northampton.

1. You can always spot a freshman a mile away by the size of his backpack.

2. In awe, sophomore Meaghan Dobson wonders just how many pencils Rory Diamond can stick in his curly red hair.

3. Bombs Away! Juniors Ryan Liebel and Elana Zygman get ready to test their physics projects.

4. Senioritis kicks in. James Wu is caught napping during his SLC ice block.



Judging by the smile on freshman Kate Schneider's face,the network must not be down--for a change.

What could be more enjoyable than sitting out in the hall, working on an art project.

Which high school project will you remember most after these four LONG years?

Who is the Wife of Bath? Lucky senior Josh Stewart will never forget his junior English project.

Students watch in amazement as senior Zach Schiffman takes Gordon Marsh's hovercraft for a quick spin.

MUCCI'S MUSIC ROOM For many students, like Elizabeth George, Mike Barnett, and Dave Rosenthal, the music room is a home away from home during those four long years of high school.

VARSITY SPORTS Mark Tremble is all smiles as he proudly displays his new varsity uniform. The best part of being an upper classman is playing on the varsity level.

GOT THE SPIRIT? LET'S HEAR IT! Friday night football games are a highlight for everyone during the fall season.

OH NO! DO I HAVE TO CHANGE? Senior year volleyball with Coach St. George is exhillarating. Eve Thau really enjoys the intensity of the game.

It's Been a Long Four Years

How many times in four years does the average student pass through these doors?

It seems like just yesterday when we were first entering the school's front doors, excited for our first day and eager to meet the kids from other middle schools. It must've taken days for you to find the perfect outfit to wear that morning because you knew that first impressions in high school are everything. Wearing your North Face jacket and your matching Puma shoes, you sprinted inside before the other kids noticed that your mother was still wearing her pajamas. With the frightening thought that our teachers would lock us out if we entered their room one minute past the bell, we stuffed all of our binders in our huge backpacks and ran to each class.

Sophomore year quickly approached. Finally we were able to attend the greatly anticipated Sophomore Semi and lock ourselves into the school overnight. Athletes left their freshman teams behind to play with the older kids at the Junior-Varsity or Varsity level. The PLAN test decided what our career options were and the PSATs decided whether or not we were smart enough to reach them. As the year slowly ended, it seemed as if the summer would never come.

IS IT PRE-CALC OR TETRIS? Junior Devin Haddad fills his free minutes by playing games on his calculator.

But the few summer months passed quickly and before we knew it, school was back in session. As juniors we were now considered "Upperclassman" and could finally sit on the left side of the cafeteria during lunch. For most people, junior year meant finishing driving school, taking on-roads, and showing that intimidating police officer our careful left and right-hand turns. For the first time we could buy our own parking passes, attend the Junior-Senior, and take AP classes. We were forced to endure long hours of SAT and ACT testing and were reminded everyday that junior year was the toughest year in high school. After long nights of homework and weekends that were always too short, we eagerly looked forward to our last year.

THE LIBRARY PASS For many sophomores, like Megan Lee and Krista Koerner, the library is the best place to spend an ICE block.

And then senior year finally arrived. For the first two quarters it was a struggle to wake up early in the morning and come to school knowing that you have hours of college applications to do, mountains of homework to work on, boring jobs to get to, hard practices to attend after school, and a million other things that needed to get done somehow before January 1st. But once the New Year arrived, the days seemed to fly by as we waited for High Meadows, Senior Prom, the Senior Banquet and Graduation. As excited as we were to begin our new lives away from Longmeadow, it was sad to watch our last few months together pass by so quickly. Looking back, it sure has been a long four years...

Remember the Good Old Days---when messing around didn't get you detention--when it was cute to make bunny ears on your friends---when summer was so much fun---

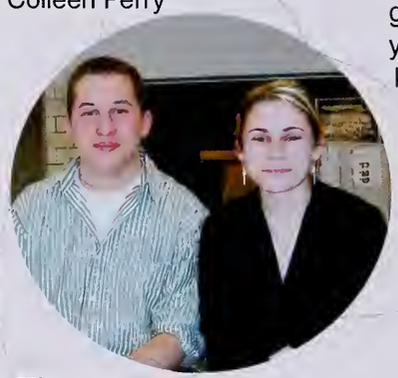
Friends Along the Way

THEN & NOW
Robbie Ehresman
& Colleen Perry



With the stress that usually accompanies a high school education, it is easy to forget the people around us that have influenced our lives throughout the years. It isn't until we are about to leave Longmeadow that we finally realize each and every person's importance. These people are the ones who have shaped our lives into what they have become today.

What about that girl next door with pigtails that you always played hide-and-seek with until your mother said it was time to eat dinner? Neighbors that you were friends with thirteen years ago are still your friends today. And what about that geek you sat next to in Kindergarten that always picked his nose? Maybe back then you didn't think so but now that he is grown up and cute, you would give anything to sit next to him. The friends that we once took music lessons with, played T-Ball with, or had dance recitals with in 8th grade are still our friends now. Even if you have split apart over the years, the things that you once talked about or played with together are still a part of you today. Remember the kids that you used to play Four Square with during recess? Or the kids that you invited to your birthday party the year that you rented a pony or a clown? Remember the friends that you made during Middle School chorus? Or the boys that were on your in-town soccer team in 5th grade? Most of these people are still going to the same school as you, and most of them are graduating at the same time. So although your current group of friends may not have all been friends since Kindergarten, make sure that you don't forget the people that have been. The friends that we've met along the way will always be important to us no matter how much time has passed.

September 1, 1992-
June 2, 2005.

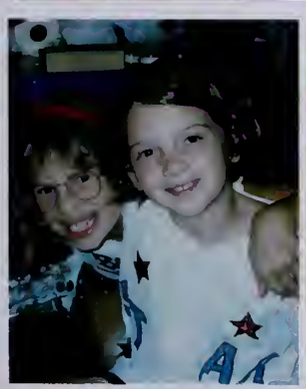
From learning their ABC's to SAT's, from learning left from right to learning how to drive, many of us have stood by each other over the past twelve years. From the first day of kindergarten to the last day of high school, Meredith Johnson and Jamie Groeneveld have been going to school together.

"I get by with a little help from my friends."

– John Lennon

A FINE FOURSOME Jenny Gallucci, Sarah Gould, Katie Kranz, and Patti O'Malley have shared many experiences, musical and otherwise, in their years of friendship.



DON'T YOU WISH YOU WERE STILL TEN YEARS OLD? Maybe your best friend had a party at the Forest Park Petting Zoo. Or maybe it was at the Shaker Bowl. For Danielle Meth's birthday bash, everyone wore Poodle Skirts and had a great time swimming in her pool. Some people (Kelly Healy) dove in fully clothed. What fun to be young!

REMEMBER SECOND GRADE? It was a time for chapter books and going out to recess with your best friend. Shayna Gilman and Emily Laurenzano have plenty to reminisce about when they look back on their days at Center School.

SENIOR CLASS ADVISOR, MRS. JANE MURPHY; ROB HENLEY

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2005

Are we really at the end of four years at LHS? The time has flown! Late August 2001 brought a very diverse group of students to Longmeadow High School. Kids from Williams and Glenbrook mixed easily with each other and with students from other towns and cities. Your lives as high school students began.

The Class of 2005 has certainly been active. You have planned so many wonderful events and offered so many opportunities for personal and social enrichment. We had record attendance at the lock-in and started the trend for co-ed manicures. Our Sophomore Semi was spectacular. Your parents (MOMS!!) rallied, and the decorations were magnificent. Who ever would have guessed that it was a cafeteria? We had memorable trips to Boston (GO SOX) and New York, we sold Krispy Kremes on that frigid November morning and generally kept ourselves busy making money and having fun.

Our class is well represented in so many areas. Our academic honors, our athletic achievements, our musical prowess, artistic talents and our scientific accomplishments are second to none. This class has done it all! Our play was wonderful. KISS ME KATE is a challenging endeavor, but you folks pulled it off. The leads were amazing and the diversity of the class once again proved the perfect ingredient for a succesful production.

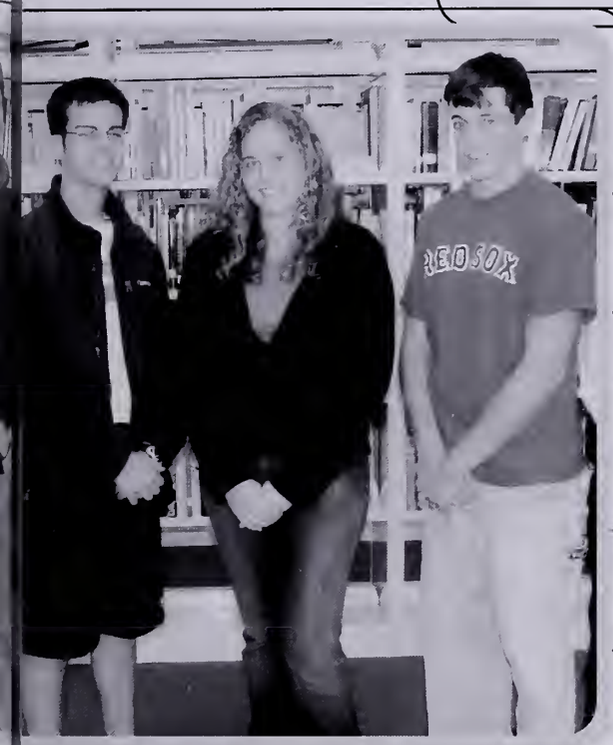
We want to offer recognition to Zach, Rob, Danielle and Greg for their hard work. They really are the backbone of the class of 2005. They worked hard to make sure that you had a great variety of activities and fundraisers. Hats off to them!

Now we are at that long awaited time when the class activities and class unity culminate. As we write this on a snowy day right before the end of second quarter, we know what the Spring will offer High Meadows, The Awards Assembly, Senior Night, the Prom and, finally, Graduation.

Our best wishes to you all for happy and successful futures. The world is yours. Enjoy!!

Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Moore

Class Officers Say so long



ZACH SHAPIRO; DANIELLE METH; PRESIDENT, GREGG TOBIN

DEAR CLASS OF 2005

It has been an honor and a priviledge to serve as your class officers. Throughout the past four years we have engaged in many fun and exciting activities that have united our class. Since our arrival as freshman in 2001, we have undergone many changes in the world, our school and ourselves. We are the last class to graduate that has experienced 9/11 in our high school years and are the first to graduate that witnessed the devastating tsunami. We watched the recount of presidential election votes during our senior year. On a positive note, we have seen three Super Bowl wins by the Patriots and one historic Bambino-busting World Series win by our beloved Red Sox. At school, we have always kicked off the year with great Back-to-School dances, continually up-holding the fall sports teams' themed costumes. Throughout the fall we all enjoyed the unforgettable Friday Night Football games. From the Pep Band, cheerleaders, players and spectators, we have all formed great memories that we will always look back on in falls to come. For the past four years we have all come to associate December with Line Dancing. Who could forget Coach Rotsko doing the tush-push or Coach Hawker breaking it down with the Electric Slide? All those Hall of Famers out there will deeply miss the annual festivity. Our numerous voyages to New York City's shopping centers and Broadway plays and to Boston for Red Sox games have been enjoyable and adventurous. Who could forget the Sophomore Lock-In as we all tried to fall asleep and recover from pounds of Subway in our stomachs and the smell of nailpolish in our noses. The multi-themed Sophomore Dinner Dance was our first semi-formal dance and we were all ecstatic to go. Back when few had heard about Krispy Kreme doughnuts, our class sold them. Some can still remember the freezing wind outside Brightwood Hardware and the immense gratitude when the last box was sold. Fall of senior year, our class was able to pull together for the Senior Class Play, "Kiss Me Kate." The long nights of rehearsals were well used, as the play was performed to perfection. In November of our Senior year the Powder Puff football game was a great success, starting the Cops and Robbers tradition. We can never forget the Robbers on the couch holding signs at the entrance to the student parking lot. In January we all braved the cold to show off our moves on the dance floor at the Junior-Senior Semi Formal. Prom, High Meadows, and the rest of Senior Week activities were the icing on the cake after four years of friends and fun. We have matured so much both physically and emotionally as individuals, conquering innumerable challenges, each with the support of our classmates. Serving as class officers has been a very demanding task, but thanks to your support and assistance we have been able to achieve a very successful and memorable four years here at LHS. As we all move on to new and exciting challenges let us always remember the times we have shared together as the class of 2005.

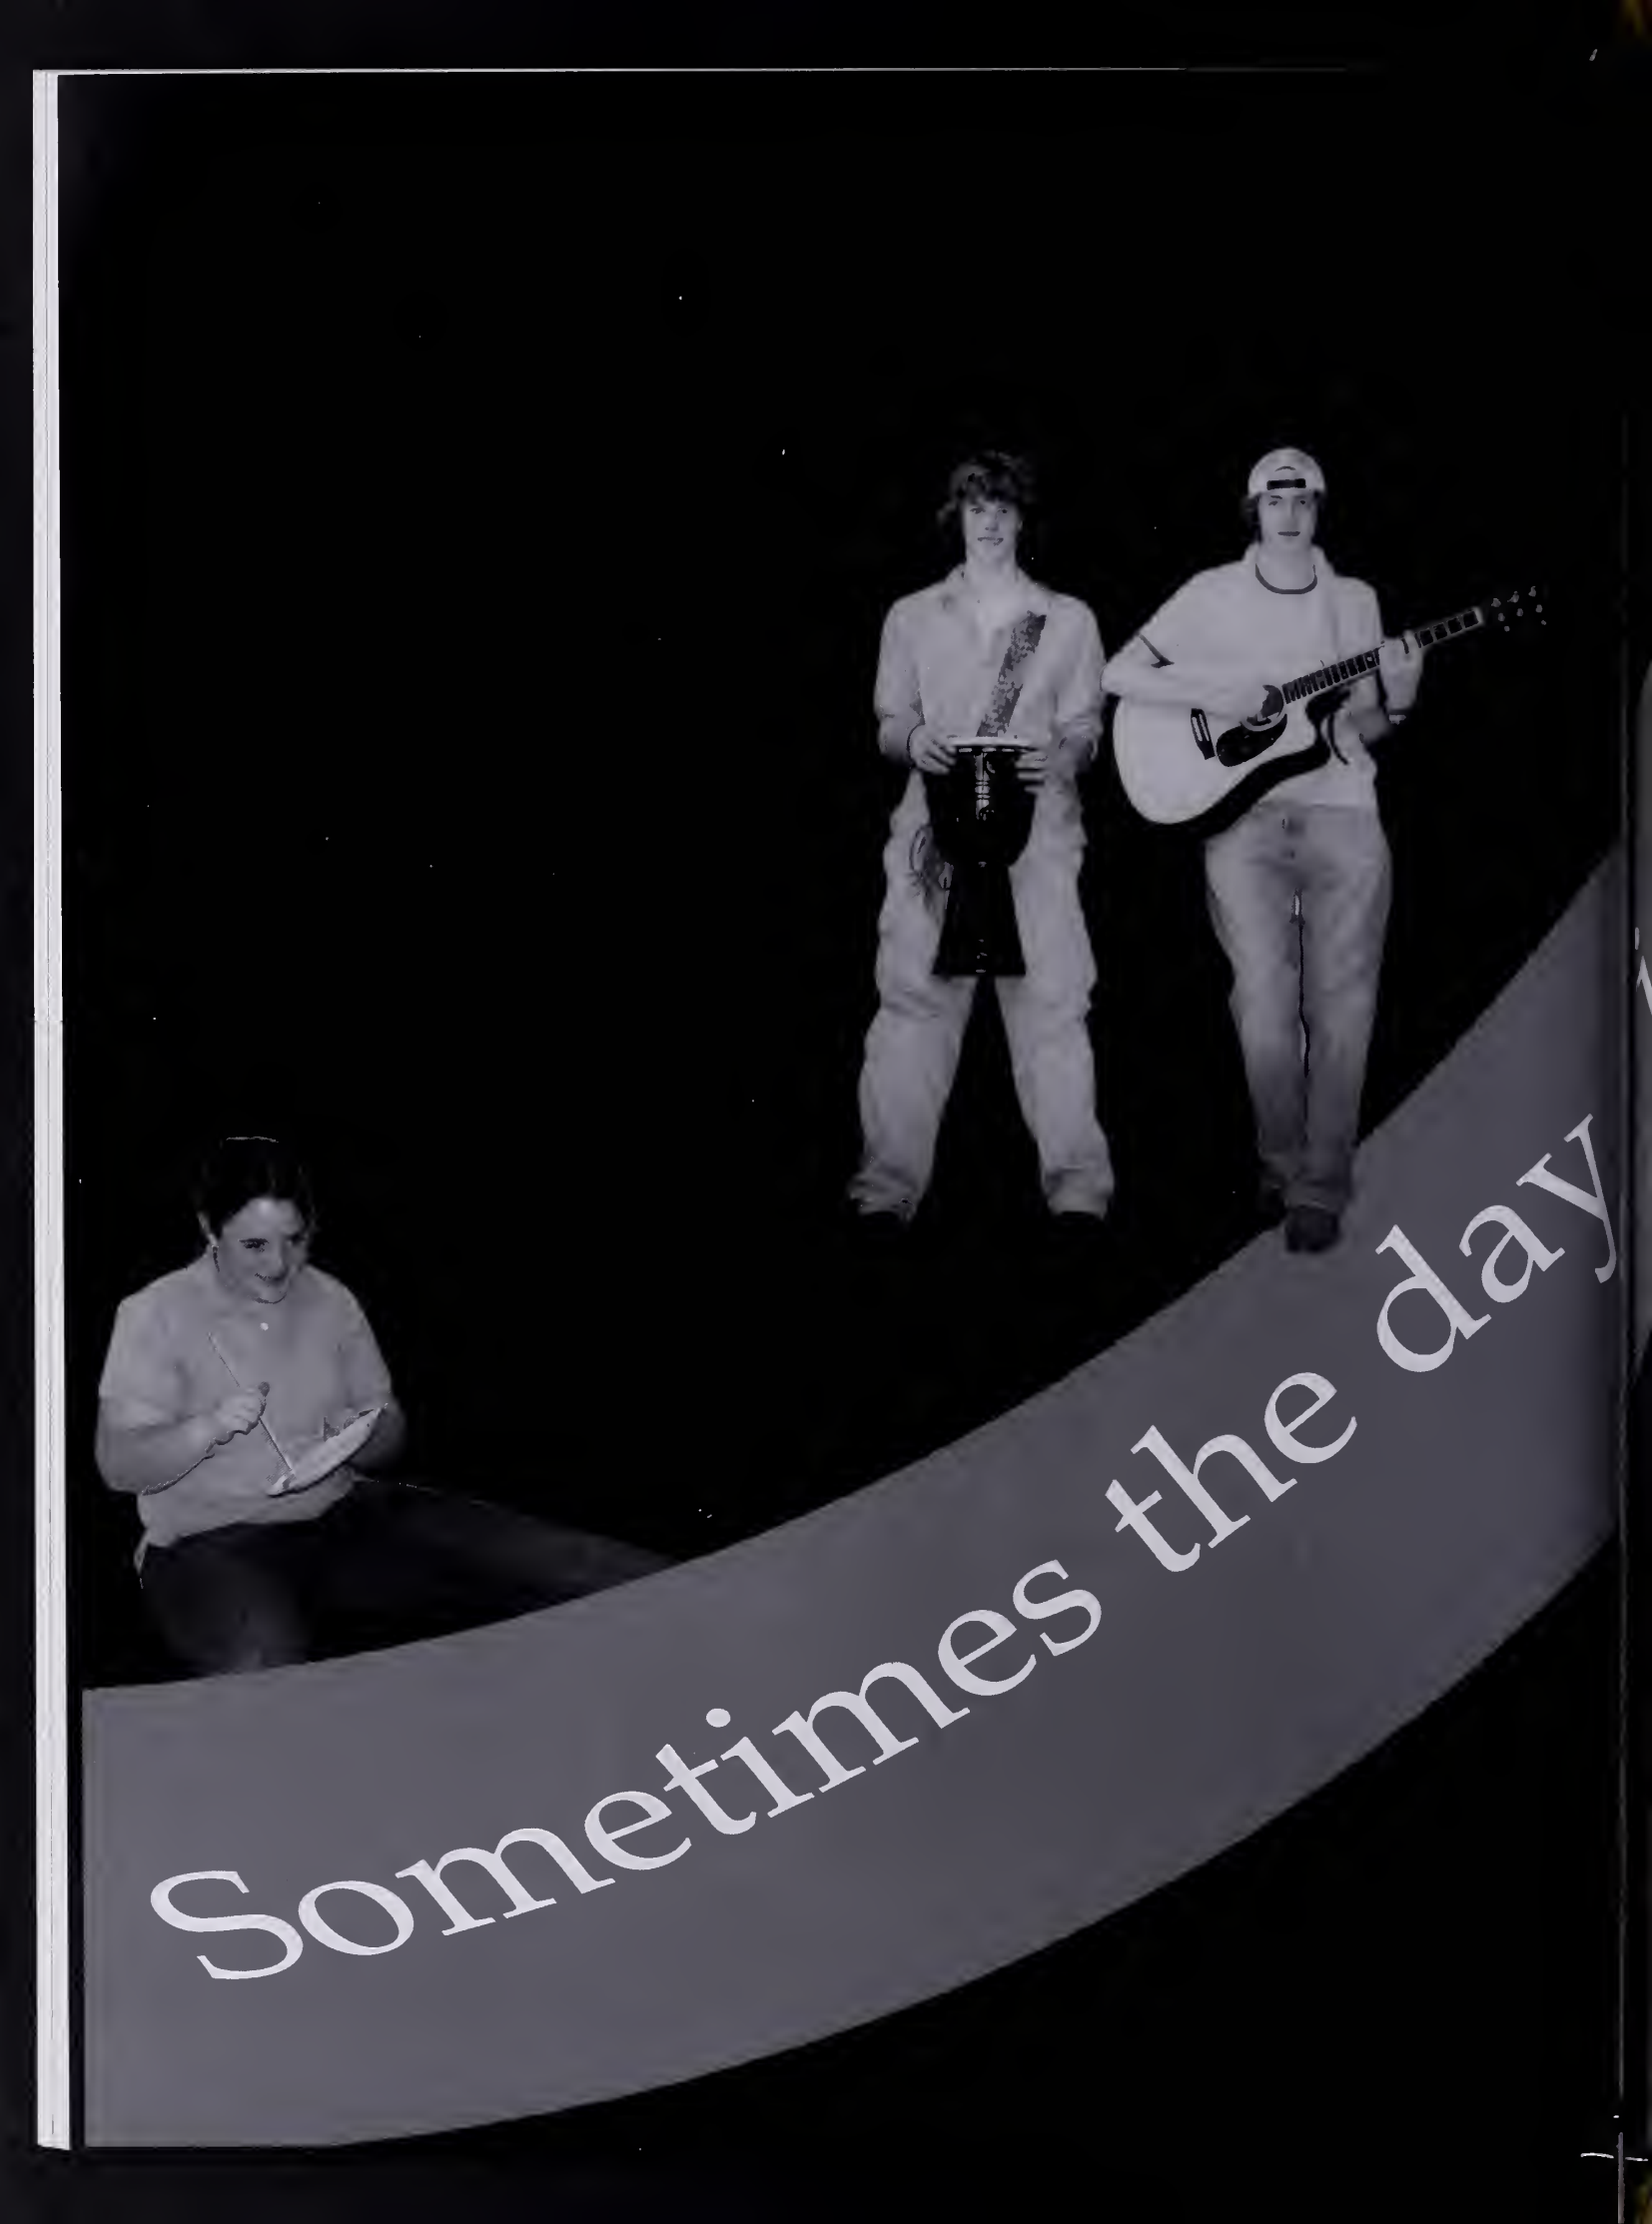
Known to one and all, the cafeteria staff is a dedicated group of women who,every day, keep the LHS community well fed.



Sometimes the day

is not long enough

The Long Wait ...til Lunch

Once the clock hits 7:45 every student is on the same mission... to make it through the morning classes so they can enjoy lunch.

1 Awaiting Arrivals

The closed front doors to LHS await the arrivals of all the eager students that pass through each morning.

2 Time for Class Already?!

Liya Tochilnikova looks on as the rest of her first block class gets prepared to start off another long day of learning.

3 Early Arrivals

These under classmen, having been dropped off at school a little too early in the morning, try to enjoy this early hour with their friends.

4 Unpacking and Repacking

Josh Taniwha makes his way to his locker to unpack last night's work only to pack up the necessary materials for his first block class.

5 Breakfast

Not having enough time for breakfast at home, John Lake and Dan Smith reach for some Cinnamon Toast Crunch to make a "healthy" start to their days

6 Working Hard...

...or hardly working? Bennett O'Brian, Ben Lakritz and Alejandro Guardia attempt to finish up some left over homework from the night before during an early morning study.

So Hungry! 7

Having gym class before lunch always works up a healthy appetite, especially waiting for that ever so far away third lunch.

8 We're All Here

All the students and teachers are here. The parking lot is packed and any late-arrivers will be hard pressed to find a good parking spot.

What a way to start the day! 9

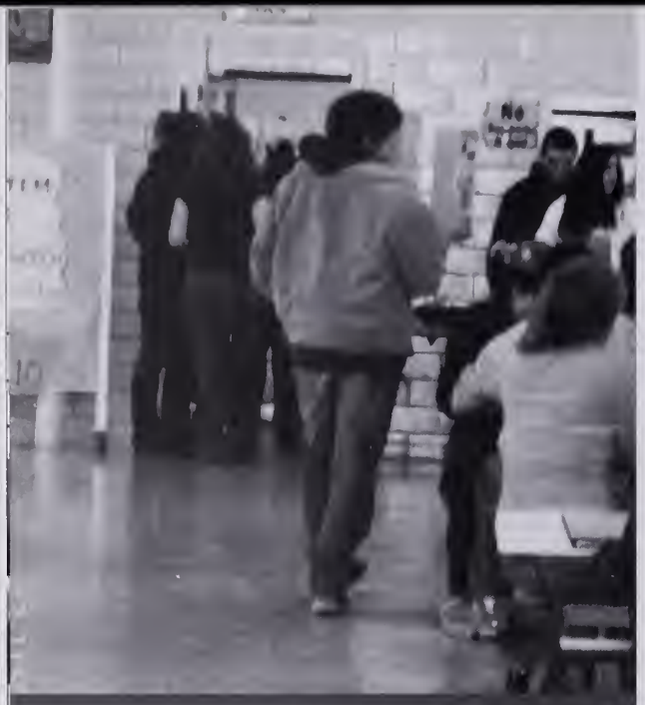
There is nothing better than getting back the dreaded test from the day before only to find you aced it! With a great score on his test, Andrew Lee is sure to have a great rest of the day!

10

It is never easy to pay attention during the last block before lunch. Junior David Reburn finds it's just too hard to concentrate on today's lessons as he dreams longingly of his awaiting lunch.

11 Head Start

Unable to stand the hunger any longer, students such as Andrew Warnock often try to make an early escape from class to be the first in line for lunch.



Last In Line 8

At last the long lunch line has finally dwindled down and all the students who took too long to get to the cafeteria can finally get their long awaited lunch.

So Very Thirsty 6

Sophomores Matt Alexandru, Rory Diamond, Bennett O'Brien and Bryan Korman goof around after quenching their thirsts with some vitamin waters from the drink machines.

A Lunch Visit 7

On his way back to find his seat, Bernie Marshall stops to catch up with the guys before settling down to eat his lunch.

Decisions, Decisions 9

With so many appealing choices Luke Hayes, Brian Hirschberg and Gavin Parker take their time in deciding just what tasty treat to purchase from the snack bar.

Contest Day 10

Every now and then lunch gets a special twist. After winning the Thanksgiving Can Drive the entire senior class was awarded a special pizza lunch . Leanne Gerlach and Kelly Healy call out the winners from the raffle during lunch.

Where should we sit? 11

Susan Dimauro and Mallory Bardin make their way across the cafeteria in search of the perfect spot to sit and eat their lunches.

Lunch Isn't Long Enough

If there is one time of day that all busy students can certainly enjoy it is the glorious half hour so fondly known as lunch.

Early Lunch Goers 2

Being early has many advantages. These lucky students don't have to wait in the never-ending lunch line like and they will have prime seating choices.

In Good Company 1

In between all the hard work and long classes these girls are able to enjoy their lunch. Happily chatting away with each other gives them a break from the usually hectic day.

David St. George makes the tough decision of what vitamin water he should chose from the Snapple machine with no Snapples. 3

4

Finishing up her lunch Jessica Weiner listens happily as Tara Sarno amuses her with a quick story.

5

After a very filling lunch, Margaret Roche lies down in the SLC on the most confortable table to let her lunch fully digest.

One Very Long Afternoon

Even though the clock keeps ticking away, it just never ever seems as if it will reach the glorious 2:15.

1 Studious Students

Even at the end of the block Chelsea Miller, Jillian O' Keefe and a few of their friends stick around to discuss some of the finer points of Mr. Staples' class.

2 No More Work!

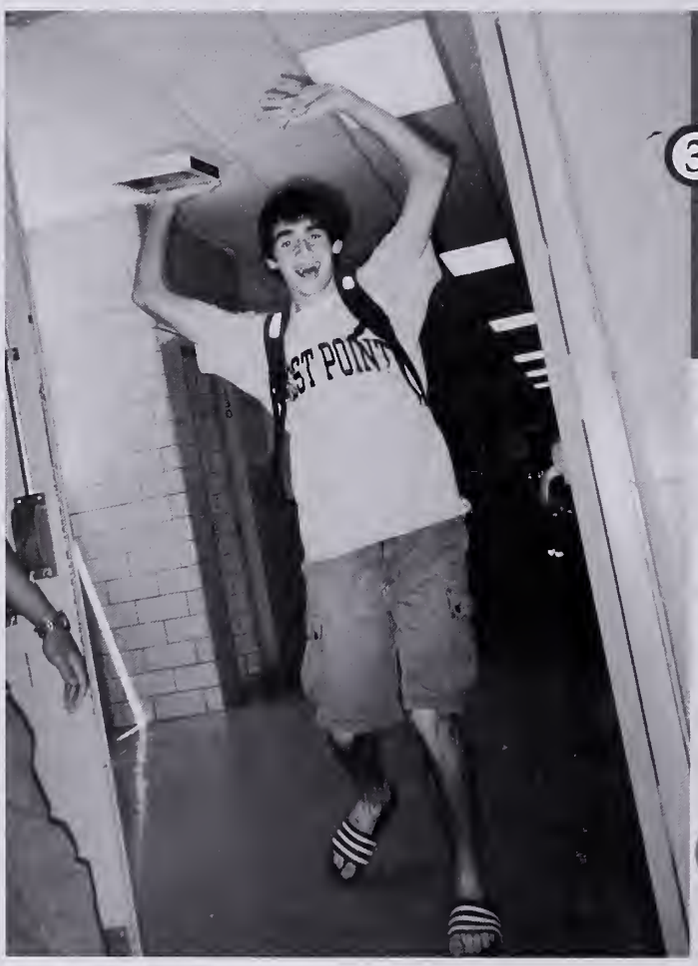
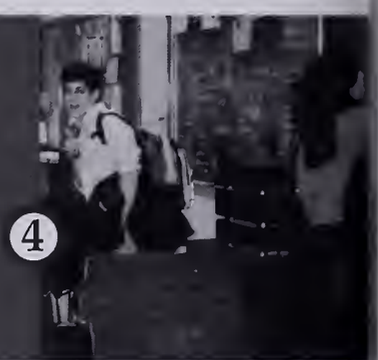
After a whole day of thinking and hard work, Tom Croteau gives his mind a rest during his study and flips through an old yearbook.



3

Bobby Conley shows off his excitement that the day is done by greeting his friends at their lockers with a cool dance move.



4

Stopping by the music room at the end of the day, Matt Berg says hi to a few of his friends and is more than happy for the day to be done.

5

Late into the end of the day Alex Stankiewicz and Luke Thomas , with all their work done, play their favorite calculator games until the bell rings.

6 We Are Out of Here!

Right as the clock strikes 2:15 these eager students pack up as fast as they can and make their way to the parking lot to get home as soon as possible.

I See The Light 7

Stepping out of the darkness and into the light, this student can finally enjoy the beautiful sunshine this day has brought.

8 Enlightened by English

Enjoying the antics of his last block English class Kyle Tranghese doesn't mind too much that he must spend the last hour of the day stuck in class.

Get In Line 9

It doesn't seem to matter how early you get out to the parking lot, that never ending line of cars always seems to be there first.

Patient Underclassmen 10

Since not everyone is old enough to be able to wait in the long parking-lot line, many underclassmen hang out at the horse-shoe waiting for their parents to bring them home.

11 Friendly Faces

Even though it has been a very long day of hard work, friends Kelsey McClure and Angelina Rinaldi get together at the end of school to brighten each other's mood.

Powder Puff

Cops vs. Robbers

Roles reverse in the annual girls' football game.
Luckily the senior boys were there to help out!

1 Prepping for the game

Before starting the game, teammates of the Cops get pumped!

2 The Crime...

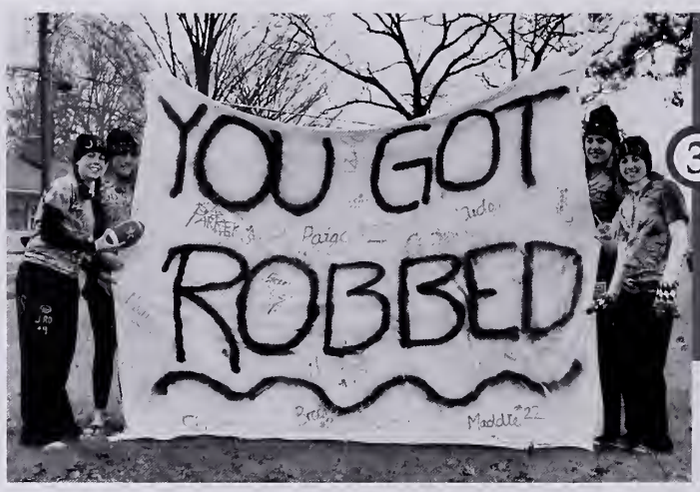
Coaches for the Robbers, Gregg Tobin and Timmy Rafter, talk to their players about strategies for the next play.



3 Holding up their victory sign before the game has started, the Robbers think they have it in the bag.

4 Margaret Roche takes her time to make a long kick while her teammates run ahead anticipating the play.

5 Friends from opposing teams, Margaret Carpenter and Kaitlin Martin, act nicely towards each other before the big rival game.

6 Listening intently, the cops take in all of coach Greg Tobin's words of wisdom in a relaxed huddle during the game.

7 Announcing the Game

Brent DeSellier provides excellent commentary for the girls' game.

8 Very Official

Refs Kent Graham, Matt Katz, and Erich Roberts show off their uniforms and serious attitudes as they wait for the game to begin.

9 Getting Away!

Robber Jenna Ross puts all her effort into escaping from three Cops.

10 Putting on a "Game Face"

11

With everyone excited to see the game, the audience watches enthusiastically.

12 What a play!

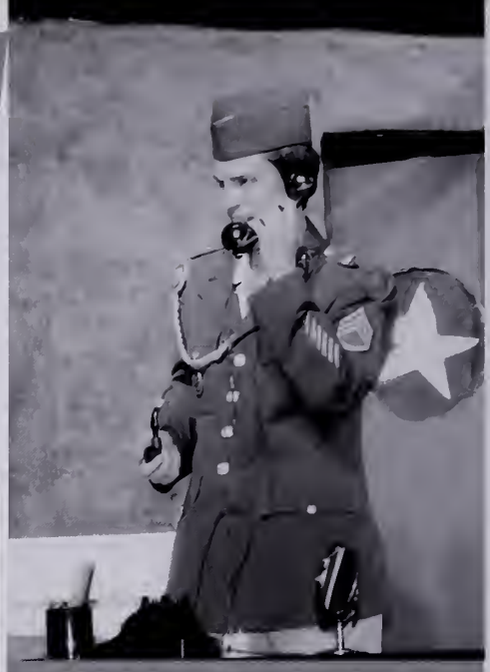
Cop Caroline Meehan flies by three Robbers on her way to the End Zone.

It's A Long Way To Verona

After a lot of hard work and many long practices, the seniors showed off their talents in "Kiss Me Kate"

1

Meaghan Erhrehrd and Phil Landry take a bow after their spectacular performance.



2

Hello Mr. President

Justin Leavens recites his lines to perfection as he makes a phone call to the president.

3

Pleading with Dan Covey for the hand of his daughter, Doug Duqette asks to marry "Katherine," played by Justine Therrien

4

Doug Duquette and Justine Therrien sing the final number as Dan Covery looks on.

5

6 Gangsters in Disguise

Acting as Doug's theatrical students, Al Ferris and Danielle Meth watch intently as the scene develops.

7 Always True To You

Finishing up an amazing number, Meaghan Ehrhard is carried away by Adam Jackowitz and James Wu.

8 Sing Your Heart Out

As the beautiful Katherine, Justine Therrian sings "I am Ashamed that Women are so Simple."

9 Strutting Her Stuff

Meaghan prepares to wow the audience with her rendition of "Always True To You In My Fashion."

10 Mr. McDoug

"Kiss Me Kate's" lead Doug Duquette delivers his lines with great ease.

11 Singing Away

Phil Landry sings away to his sweetheart "Bianca," played by Megan Ehrhard.

Partying it up LONGmeadow style

After a long wait to an amazing night students crowded the dance floor and danced the night away!

Snow. Will it snow again or won't it? That was the most asked question on January 16, 2005 as juniors and seniors prepared for the annual Junior Senior Semi formal. Despite the flakes falling from the winter sky,everyone had a great evening. For many, the evening began by gathering at friends' houses for a pre-dance snack and posing for pictures before driving to The Oaks in Agawam. From the first dance to the last, everyone made the most of the evening, enjoying music and friendship, posing for photos taken by AP Art students. Venturing back out in the snow when the dance was done, some wearily returned home while others headed off to friends' houses for after-the-dance get togethers or sleep-overs. Regardless of the destination, everyone enjoyed sleeping in on Monday morning, getting rested up from the night before.

1 What a Cute Couple!
Seniors Ella Sussman and Bobby Bardin enjoy eachother's company before the go out and hit the dance floor for the evening.

2 Dressed to the nines, Evan Casanova, James Wu, Dan Covey, , David StGeorge, and Anothony Gentile are ready to pick up their dates and go off to the dance.

Enjoying the music and the company of good friends, Jaymie Gershin and Margaret Roche have a great time . 3

6 Dressed and Ready

All set to head off to the dance Shannon Murphy, Sara Packin, and Sarah Cohn show off their beautiful dresses to all the picture taking parents.

8 On The Job

Juniors and Senior 7

Looking Lovely 9

Upon their arrival of the dance juniors Rayna Trietsch and Tracy Hosley take a moment to admire each other's dresses.

10

Brent DeSellier, Danielle Meth, Allyson Moriarty, Adam Jackowitz, Zach Schiffman, and Lindsay Wright take a break from all their crazy dancing.

11 Double date

With Meghan Griswald and Kirsten Giguere at his side, Sam Fortsch is ready for a fabulous evening.

At long last

Sophomore dinner dance

A Night in Paris

March 11, 2005

2 The Sophomore class enjoys dinner and waits for the dance to begin.

1 Get Down and Dance

Ginel Bascombe and Jazlene Lasanta show off their dance moves.

3 Nick Fioretti and Bridget Fallon put on a show in the middle of the dance floor.

4 Haley Anderson and Bryanna Alger move to a more western themed song, "Cotton Eye Joe."

5 Erin Wilson, Lianna Valdes, Julia Manna, Dora Yang, and Bryanna Alger stand in front of the Art Club's Arc de Triumphe.

7 Slowing Things Down a Little

With a change from the upbeat music, Tyler Saremi and Stephanie Harr enjoy a slow dance.

8 Where Could She Be?

Matt Berg searches through the crowded dance floor for his missing date.

6 Smile for the Camera!

Chris Donahue takes a picture of all his friends so he can remeber the exciting night.

9

Rebecca Engell, Andrew Lee, and David G. Miller are dressed and ready for a night of fun with all their friends.

How does this work? 10

Double checking to make sure the flash is working, Alejandro Guardia and Lissie Lee inspect a disposable camera.

11 Does that Chicken Taste Good?

Looking at the various dinner selections, Susan Mirkin tries to decide what she should have for dinner.

It's been a long

A Long Night

I Cantori

Mr. Thomsen plays percussion on the drum kit for "Goldmine."

Rebecca Ernst waits to sing in the Winter Concert.

In between songs Lauren Schieper and Phil Landry laugh over a funny joke.

Members of I Cantori get ready to perform in the winter concert.

Jen Manzi, Tyler Dawson, and Lauren Schieper sing the first movement " Kyrie" from Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina's Missa Brevis.

Phil Landry, Leann Gerlach, and Isaac Hausman are ready to sing movement five " Agnus Dei" from Missa Brevis.

Rebecca Ernst, Leann Gerlach, John Hannifan, Issac Hausman, Phil Landry, Jen Manzi, Sean McMahon, Madalyn Palmer, Meg Riley, Lauren Scheiper David Tinervia

A Long Way

Lyrics

Doug Duguette sings " Oh Magnum. Oh Magnum Mysterium."

Lauren Scheiper waits to sing "My Spirit Sang All Day"

Mr Thomsen conducts with perfect accuracy and enthusiasm " The Lily In The Hand" written by Eric Whitacre.

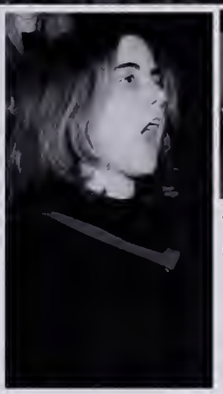
Members of the select group Lyrics sing " Howl Ye" in the Winter Concert.

Liz Berger takes part in singing "Remembrance"



The group accepts the applause at the end of their performance

All eyes on Mr. Thomsen, the assembled choir waits the cue to begin.

This year for Lyrics has been an exceptionally unique one in that they were able to travel to Italy for ten days over April vacation and perform throughout the country. Starting with the first rehearsal last May, Lyrics prepared their vast repetoire daily, advancing themselves as both musicians and performers. Their program, which consisted completely of acapella music, was presented in Venice, Florence, Cortona and Rome. -Meghan Riley

A Long Sigh

La Cappella

Silvana Vivenzio takes a breath before singing Witches' Chorus in the Fall Concert.

Elyssa Auerbach gets ready to sing How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps.

Members of La Cappella sing Will You Be There from the movie Free Willy along with percussionist Zach Sweeney.

The Soprano II section of La Cappella waits to begin singing Lullabye For Titania from Midsummer Night's Dream in the Fall Concert.

The Alto section of La Cappella sings I Will Follow Him from Sister Act II in the Pops Concert with soloist Ya-Nerra Thomas.

This years La Cappella had an incredible increase in girls wanting to sing. The group is about 90 girls now. La Cappella is a group for girls in grades 10 through 12 and there is no experience necessary. The only thing that you need i a good attitude and a liking toward music. In class you not only learn the music but you also learn music theory and lyrics in different languages, and you can always count on a funny joke on fridays.

In the fall of 2004, singers in the LHS chorcal program were nvited to audition for a new ensemble. The purpose of this ensemble vas to offer additional study and performance opportunities to tudents who just couldn't get enough. The ensemble had no name ntil one chorus class was working on a Music Theory assignnent, and a student suggested that " The Accidentals" would be great name for a singing group.

Singers in The Accidentals represent all four grades at LHS, nd all are members of either Women's Chorus, La Cappella or yrics. The group rehearses on Mondays from 7--9 pm. Chocolate s usually involved. The Accidentals gave their debut performance n the Radcliffe Choral Festival at Sanders Theater in November nd also had a performance at the Massachusetts Music Educaors' Association All-State Conference in March.

"Heart on Fire. Brain on Ice. - Mr. Mucci"

The Longmeadow High School's Wind Ensemble is made up of roughly 40 eagar musicans. This group of students is selected by audition each spring for the following year. Each member is required to take private lessons outside of the group, but many play in other ensembles as well inorder to gain experience with different repetoires and conductors. Traditionally, Wind Ensembles are one to a part, and although this group has more than that, each member is exposed and important to the whole ensemble's sound. For new members, "rookies," and even some old, it takes some time to get comfortable with Mr. Mucci's intense warm-ups and focused rehearsals, but as the year progresses the group performs at advanced levels with ease. The group plays in three concerts each year, including the Winter, Pops, and Major Works concerts. Putting a lot of time into practicing and sectionals, it is apparent that all wind ensemble members love and are inspired by music, with much thanks to their conductor, Mr. Mucci.

Running a Long Distance

2004 was a great year for the Longmeadow Boys' and Girls' Cross-Country Teams. A combination of new and old talent helped the Boys to a strong finish off their season and the girls to an amazing Top Ten finish at the State Championships. The Girls' Team, led by Ms. Kim Buescher, was undefeated with a 9-0 record taking the title of Valley League South Champs. The Boys' Team, led by Mr. Russ Campbell, may have had a few losses but proved to be a team to contend with. Congratulations on a great season!

Kicking A Long Shot

Putting our best foot forward

Although it was not the most successful season on paper, this was a very meaningful one for the Lancers Boys Varsity Soccer team. With eight seniors, Erich Roberts being a returning captain, the younger players had a great group to learn from and look up to. "It was dissappointing that we didn't win more games considering the teams skill and heart," says senior captain Kevin Robinson. Even after such a season the team has high hopes that next year will be even better.

Senior Captains Ryan Carroll and Erich Roberts make an effort to set up a gret play to get past the other team's defense.

A Long Road to Victory!

Western Mass Champs!

The Girls' Soccer Team had an amazing season this year. In the beginning, no one knew what to expect. We had a new coach, Erin Caprara who, through the entire season, proved to be the leading force in our success. Her positive attitude and encouragement kept us working hard and kept our heads up. Throughout the season we grew closer, a family, supporting and pushing each other to be the best we could. In every practice and every game we tried our hardest, our efforts leading us to the Western Mass tournament, the goal we had been working towards all season. Already proud of this accomplishment, we proceeded to out-run and out-play Westfield, Cathedral, and Minnechaug to win the Western Mass Championship, and we deserved every minute of that victory. This team exceeded great expectations through hard, honest work and total dedication. Being a part of this success is truly remarkable. (Kylee Yam)

Golf Team Captures State Championships Again

After winning the state championship in 2003, the Golf Team had little room for improvement, but somehow they found a way. Finishing the regular season with an undefeated record, the team had momentum on their side heading into the post season. But Western Mass was a disappointment for the team, finishing third. Heading into States, the team had one thing on their minds, back-to-back. Led by seniors C.J. The Indoor Track Team

In the Long Run

Lancer Indoor Track Team Makes its Mark

The '04-'05 season marks the fourth year for Longmeadow High School's In-door Track Team. Although having only two of its original members returning to the team, this season can definitely be remembered as the best one yet. With at least four records being broken on the men's side and several more on the women's side, how could this season ever be forgotten? The regular season was remarkable for the women who went undefeated. The post-season brought another remarkable set of events with almost fifty athletes competing at Western Mass, and four men and at least eight women competing in the States. For a very young team, Longmeadow can be very proud of its accomplishments.

Ranked among the top twenty in the nation, junior Emily Bordeau sprints around the turn in record time.

Hurtlers Ben Schill and Bobby Bardin 3-step their way to the finish line.

Beginning a 300 with an impressive start, Greg Appleman is all business during his race.

Jenna Zucker and Laura Chechette run hard looking to finish 1 - 2.

It's been a long trip back

Up the mountain we go...

After a disappointing loss in the finals last year, our goal since Day One was getting back and winning it all. Led by senior captains TJ Hollins, Jay King, and Matt Katz, and under the guidance of first year head coach Aaron Patterson, the Lancers are well on their way. With key victories over Commerce, the first in over a decade, Cathedral, and Central, the Lancers finished 9-1 at home overall. The team entered the tournament winning, and led into the tournament on a high note trying to reach the original team goal.

Senior Jay King takes it hard to the hoop, and even uses the left hand to finish.

Phenom Terrill Hollins concentrates as he attempts to make a free-throw.

The 2004-2005 Longmeadow High School Girls' Varsity Basketball team was lead by senior captains Christine Casacelli, Kaitlin Martin, and Mary Bitzer. Although the Lady Lancers suffered through many injuries, they persevered and finished with a great season under new head coach Jay Fenlason. Despite the team's youth and lack of height, the Lancers prevailed over arch-rivals Minnechaug and eventual state finalist, Springfield's Central. By using their incredible speed and accurate shooting, the team consistently came out on top. Three senior co-captains Christine Casacelli, Kaitlin Martin, and Mary Bitzer were exceptionally happy with the 2005 season.

A long way down the course

LHS racers speed their way to victory

Those long bus rides and cold nights of practicing on Monday and Tuesday nights at Blanford or icy Berkshire East were all well worth it because the races on Thursday nights were so victorious. The Girls' Team won first place in A-Division, with Jenna Ross finishing first in Western Mass and Heather dobson finishing thirde. The Boys' Team was equally impressive, finishing at the top of B-Division. Both teams can be very proud of their season.

Tucked for speed, Eddie Mulhearn keeps on his edges as he competes in the grand slalom.

Making a tight turn around the gates, Jenna Ross looks to finish the course in record time

The Girls' Ski Team

With speed and agility, senior Heather Dobson marks the course.

First Place Finishes

Rob Henley speeds past the slalom-gates.

Winding his way through the GS course Geoff Peck cuts around the next gate.

Speeding through the GS course, Arthur Mulhearn makes his way to the bottom in a perfect tuck.

Poles close to his side, Gavin Parker races toward the finish line.

Jessica Parker picks up momentum as she winds her way through the course.

The finish line in sight, Alison Burke makes a final push to beat her time.

Tucked low to the snow, Andrew Burke keeps his eyes on the next gate.

Splash Talk

Junior, Tim Marinelli reaches for his pike in this front dive.

Beating his opponents, James Lui races down the lane.

Matt Alexandru uses his height and strength to pull this reverse dive around.

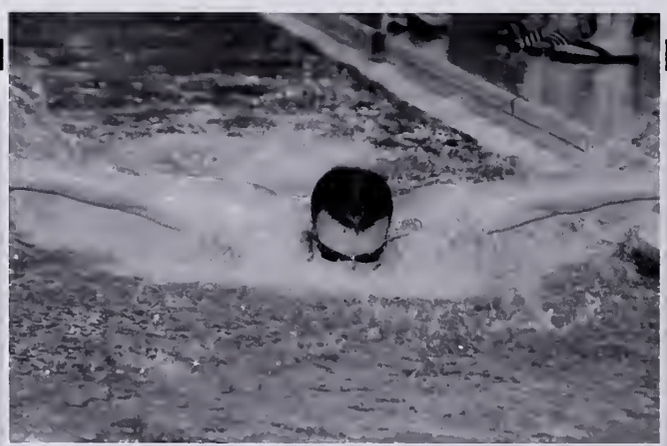
Andy Chou times his start off the blocks perfectly for his relay team.

Junior, Greg Alexandru, swims breast stroke during a warmup for this big meet.



■ Despite his shoulder troubles, Mike Stein always pulls through a great time swimming the butterfly for his medley relay team.

■ Three of the Men's senior captains, Doug Douquette, Adnon Faruqui, and Elliot Krach, (James Wu, missing) look tough and intimidating as an example for the rest of their team.

A long swim

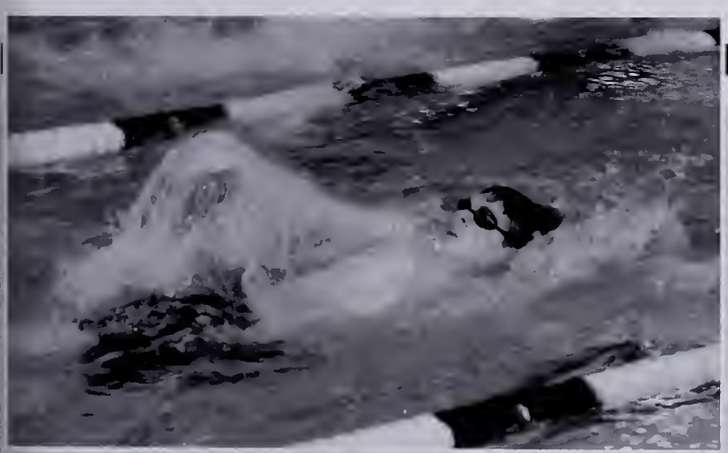
Making waves

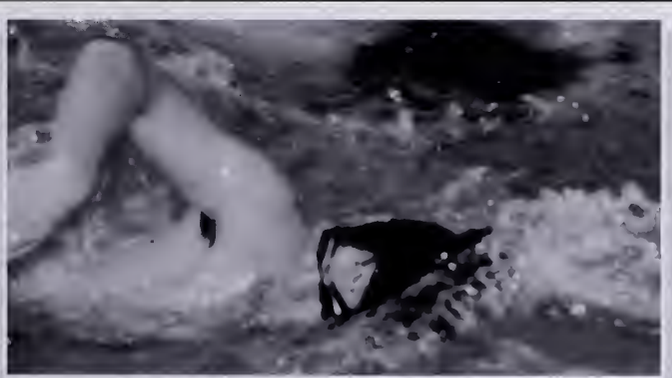
Each day after school these dedicated, hard-working boys get into the freezing cold swimming pool and swim lap after lap of suicides and other drills. Pretty boring if you think about it as staring at the bottom of a pool all afternoon! But these young men have all their fun at team dinners, especially the famous hair-cutting dinner before Western Mass! Their coaches, J.P. Ghalli and J. Andrew Schmidt really give their team a work out and it shows in all their times and at the meets they win!

Adnan Faruqui creates a big splash with his hard kicking, as he sprints across the pool.

Most of the 2004-2005 Men's Swimming Team and coaches J.P. Ghalli, Andrew Schmidt, and Laura Marinelli gathers together to show their spirit and dedication.



Swimming his favorite stroke, John Galuska focuses intensely on a strong finish.



■ Senior Elliot Krach sets an example for his teamates with this crawl stroke warm-up. ■

A long meet

Swimmers make their best times

The 2004-2005 Women's Swimming and Diving team had a successful season. Under instruction of the same coach, and swimming at the same time as the boys' team, things got interesting and very amusing at times. Although there was a lot of laughter and great fun in their memories, these ladies worked hard and achieved a lot getting to Western Massachusetts and even reaching States. This season was successfuly run under the coaches J.P. Ghalli, Andrew Schmidt, Laura Marinelli and Paul. The women's captains were very enthusiastic and helped the team along with their spirit. They were juniors Kellen O'Gara, Johanna Kos and senior Hannah Grayboff.

How many girls does it take to shave Jon's head? Johanna Kos, Kelle O'Gara, and Lauren Hauser are all going at it so that this shaving part won't last as long Celebrating a great season and many past seasons, the serniors of the women's and men's team stand with their coaches at their banquet and last horah of their high school swimming and diving careers.

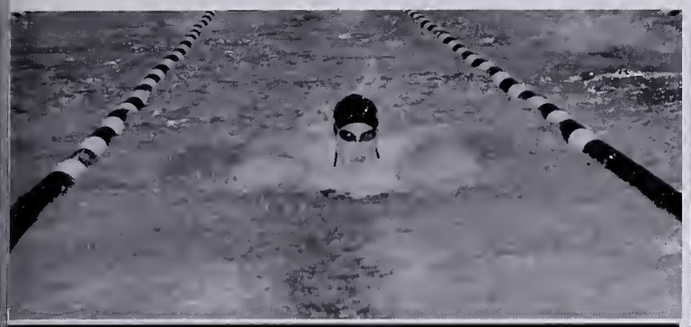
Johanna Kos awaits her coach's call to start her warm up before a big meet.

Reina Trietch reaches for a strong finish in the backstroke.

Freshman, Juliet Wu patiently waits for the announce to tell the swimmers to "Step up" onto the blocks



Leading the race, Kellen O'Gara shows her butterfly skills in this individual medley.

Freshman, Alli Kimmel starts herself in this focused warm up.

Friends and teammates, Melody Chaou, Alex Novak, and Juliet Wu get each other excited for Western Mass.

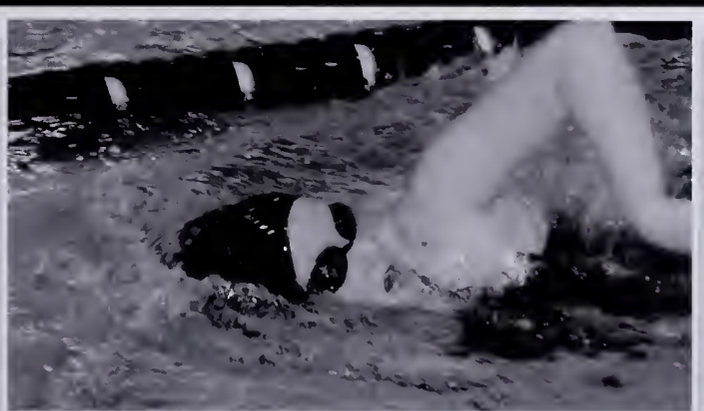
Rachel Kim comes out of her pike position in thispractice reverse dive.

Members of the 2004-2005 swim team relax with their coaches during their banquet after the conclusion of a successful season.

Eager to count laps for a teammate, Ashley Brown waits for the 500 yard freestyle race to begin.

Alex Novak comes above the water for a quick breath during her breaststroke race.

Members of the Women's Diving team, Rachel Kim, Caitlin Garreffi, Kimmi Schmidt, Heather O'Connell, Autumn Beaulac, Katie Kranz, and Elizabeth Chipkin have a good laugh at the banquet with James Wu and Matt Alexandru.



Lauren Hauser catches a quick breath in her freestyle sprint.

A Long, Hard Match

LHS Grapplers stay strong all the way

Attempting to tame the beast, Cameron Green puts all his strength into taking down his opponent.

This year the Longmeadow High wrestlers proved a force to contend with. Under leadership of Coaches Alex Efstratios, Kevin McKay, and Mike Calvanese, the Lancer ended the season with an outstanding 10-2-1 record, placing 3rd in Western Mass and 5th in the state. Mike Foss once again earned the title of State champion at the 145 weight class and then went on to win All States as well. Dave DeLuca places 2nd in both States and All States at the 103 weight class. Other victories at the Western Mass level included Alberto Rubinaccio placing 1st, Joe DeuLca placing 2nd, and Cameron Green and Clayton McGrath both placing 3rd in their respective weight classes.

Eye-to-eye and head-to-head, Brian Shotland looks to intimidate his opponent as his match gets under way.

After taking his man down, Brian Shotland now applies the finishing touches to his pin attempt Jovan Perez keeps on fighting, never giving up, never giving in.

A long road to victory!

2004-2005 Western Mass Champions!

The past two years have been nothing but "pent-up emotion" according to senior captain Kent Graham. Losing in the Western Mass Finals in overtime the last two years to the Westfield Bomers, the Lancer Hockey team's emotion exploded, going on a 17-5-1 run throughout the season. This season would be just a little different. The bonded hockey team pulled together and fought their way to getting the Number One seed in the playoffs and a first round bye. The Lancers started the tournament with a Quarter-Final win over Agawam, then a close over-time win over Minnechaug in the Western Mass Semi-Finals. Once again the Lancer hockey team would be going to the Springfield Civic Center to play in the Western Mass Final against their long-time rival, the Westfield Bomers. This season the Lancers won it all, becoming Western Mass. Champs!

Reviewing their strategy, the Lancers gather together for their routine meeting after the period.

Chasing after the black disc, senior speedster Robert Flynn flies down the ice.

Junior goaltender Kevin Flanders is focused and ready to stop the puck.
